LIFTER OF WATCHES SENTENCED TO JAIL

Old Offender Given Year and Half on Two Charges.

Joseph Lewis is another visitor to Washington who believes in changing one's name according to the weather man, and he faced Judge Mullowny this morning to tell the court just how easy it is to "lift" watches that belong to somebody else.

The court succeeded in convincing Mr. Lewis that it is just as easy to slip over on the folks that do that sort o fthing a nice little mileage book good to take the bearer out to Uncle Sam's University of Hard Labor for as long as the court may please. So Mr. Lewis will spend the next year and a half

Has Police Record.

Lewis, who is said to hold a police record in Boston and Quincy, Mass., under the name of J. C. Honey, had a clever way of appropriating other persons' watches.

Last October Lewis, or Honey, went into the jewelery shop of William J. Ketler, 1024 Seventh street northwest, told the proprietor he had called for his watch which had been left to be mended, and pointed out the watch in the repair case. He said his name was Smith. Lewis described the watch minutely and it was handed over to him after he had paid the small price for repairs.

It developed afterward that Lewis had visited the shop, familiarized himself with the contents of the case and had seen the name of Smith attached to the watch. When the real owner came to claim his property the theft was discov-

Works Same Scheme.

Later Lewis visited the shop of John Keppler, another jeweler, and working the same scheme, he said his name was Wood and procured another watch, Just about two minutes after he had got away with the watch, the owner, who is connected with the Southern Railway, called to get it.

Lewis was walking along the street last Saturday when Mr. Ketler, the first jeweler to suffer at his hands, recognized him and had him arrested. In the first case Lewis got a year in jail, and for the Keppler theft he was sentenced

"About two years ago I contracted. eczema and suffered intensely for about ten months. At times I thought I would scratch myself to pieces. My face and arms were covered with large red patches, so that I was ashamed to go out. I was advised to go to a doctor who was a specialist in skin diseases, but I received very little relief. I tried every known remedy, with the same results. I thought I would never get better until a friend of mine told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. So I tried them as the last resource, and I am very glad that I did, for after four or five applications of Cuticura Ointment I was relieved of my unbearable itching. I used two sets of the Cuticura Remedies (Soap, Ointment and Pills), and I am Ave., Highlandtown, Md., Jan. 9, '08."

Refuses Details.

Miss Garden will not go into details on the subject-which she insists is a private matter. But about two months ago Mr. Mayer, impatient for his money and believing that the prano now was making plenty to pay him, demanded it. Miss Garden was willing to pay but preferred to return the amount in installments-"$20,000 is not found every day on a street corner," she expressed it, and there was more trouble. Before the argument was ended there were threats of a suit to recover the money.

The amount which Mr. Hammerstein pays his leading French singer never has been made public, but it may be said that it is more than $1,00\ a n'tht, and when the opera season in Thirty-fourth street and in Philadelphia and in Boston closes she will have sung in the neighborhood of fifty times.
